Sometimes those who you least expect may be having trouble finding a way to put food on the table each day. With the cost of food increasing and median household incomes decreasing, parents may be finding it more difficult to provide their children with three meals each day, let alone using the fresh, quality ingredients that growing children need. Montgomery County has a variety of food resource programs and it may be helpful to have information available for parents who may not think to ask for assistance.

Montgomery County Community Action Development Commission (CADCOM) acts as a resource center for food programs throughout the county. You may contact them at (610) 277-6363 or visit cadcom.org for a comprehensive food resource directory which has information on food cupboards, farmers markets, food stamps and more. The Montgomery County Personal Navigator Program connects any county resident to government assistance programs, such as food stamps and community service organizations at no cost. You may contact the Personal Navigator Program, managed by VNA Community Services, through their toll-free
